Hajin: Sure. In Korea, it's not on January 1st.

It's sometime from late January to February.

Tina: So, does it change every year?

Hajin: Yes, it does.

Eri: Do you eat special food on New Year's Day?

Hajin: Yes. The family members get together and eat
“tteokguk.” It's a kind of rice cake soup.

Eri: Is it like “ozoni” ...?

Hajin: Yes, it is.

Tina: So Japan and Korea have some things in common.
